You rehearse in the mirror every word you say
Then you get up on stage and you just press play
I know that ten years from now you be sleazing in bars
And I'll be hangin at my mansion with movie stars

So take another drink and wash it all away Worry about living with your shitty pay
So take another shot and snort another line
Hope that you wake up and everythings fine

No way, take your fucking life and throw it all away Go away, you got a one way ticket straight down the drain
No way, take your fucking life and throw it all away
Go away, you got a one way ticket straight down the
drain

The only people watching you are on the posters on the wall
You just set your self up and I'm coming with the fall
It's time to pay the piper you got no money to pay Your like a second rate actor in a third rate play

No way, take your fucking life and throw it all away
Go away, you got a one way ticket straight down the
drain
No way, take your fucking life and throw it all away
Go away, you got a one way ticket straight down the drain
