Stop, I know you too well
Look around you can't you tell
It's all the same
Hauntingly familiar,
Every time we get here
It doesn't change

And it hurts babe
You know it kills me
When you say

We can work it out
We can try again
That's what you keep telling me
But I don't see it ever happening
Cause every time we try, it's just a matter of time
Before we're right here, right where we are tonight
Tell me why are we pretending
We're not right back where we ended

I'm done making excuses
Cause using them
Means lying to ourselves
We (both) deserve much better
Than being comfortably together
And nothing else

It's not worth it
And that's why it hurts bade
When you say

We can work it out
We can try again
That's what you keep telling me
But I don't see it ever happening
Cause every time we try, it's just a matter of time
Before we're right here, right where we are tonight
Tell me why are we pretending
We're not right back where we ended

There's no use in denying

That what we had is dying, oh I'm trying
That's what you keep telling me
But I don't see it ever happening
Cause every time we try, it's just a matter of time
Before we're right here, right where we are tonight
Tell me why are we pretending
We're not right back where we ended

But I just don't believe
We can work it out
We can try again
Cause every time we try, it's just a matter of time
Before we're right here, right where we are tonight
Tell me why are we pretending
We're not right back where we ended
