Motel sitting in the dark empty room like an empty heart lovers stop but they never stay they dont look back as they drive away maybe i should fix this broken neon light fill in the cracks and paint it bright then maybe love will stop here tonight and if she knocks on my door ill give her the key

just one look in her eyes and i know ill be everything that she sees in me more than i ever thought i could be but

CHORUS

these are the days
when all that i can do is dream but i dont wanna spend forever living in the in between im stuck here in a place without love and i just cant let it stay this way but for now im gonna have to face it
these are the days

gotta use this lonely time to change the picture in my frame of mind outside the window theres a sunny day i wanna feel it on my face you and i are out here looking for the same thing and then to all the wondering waiting for someone to share this feeling

ill give her the key
and i know ill be everything that she sees in me more than i ever thought i could be

these are the days between your hopes and fears these are the moments that will still appear its still uncertin if she will love me but like it or not this is what i got ohh cause

these are the days
and im stuck here in a place without love
and i just cant let it stay this way but for know im gonna have to face it cause these are the days

and all that i can do is dream but i dont wanna spend forever living in the in between im stuck here in a place without love
for now im gonna have to face it
these are the days
