

Diana Vickers"The Day Me And You Were Born"

Visit "The Day Me And You Were Born" on MotoLyrics.com

Me and You, on the radio.
I didn't know yet who you were.
That song always hit me, like something that was meant to be.
But without you, there was only me.
I heard it back in 1996, years before you came along.
There was something missing, the love that never did seem true.
I had me, but I was missing you.

Until that springtime Sunday morn' when I laid eyes on you, seeds of love planted in my heart by Sunday afternoon.
We went out to dinner, then an afternoon picture show.
That's the day Me and You were born.

Our family joined us in the park, we said our vows and then I do.
And at our reception, the music sounded so brand new.
Our first dance, the song was Me and You.
Now all these years, we're blessed beyond belief.
Loving you is what life means to me.
Those seeds of love were planted that Sunday
afternoon.
Now everyday it's always me and you.

It's all because that Sunday morn'
When I laid eyes on you.
Seeds of love planted in my heart by Sunday afternoon.
We made a love together, and together it continues to grow.
That's the day Me and You were born.
We made a love together, and together it continues to
grow.
That's the day Me and You were born.

I love the day Me and You were born.

