I Paid five hundred bucks for a ten dollar car.
She's used four full quarts of oil so far.
Hey and she's really got a wobble over fifty-five
But somehow we get from A to B alive

And we cross our fingers all the way there
But when I'm with my baby I really don't care

Let it go, let it burn
Let the steam from the radiator rise,
Send her up to car heaven
Cause' I wouldn't mind walking outta my shoes,
As long as I'm walking away with you.

We put our hands on the hood and said a little prayer
Cause' the brakes barely work and the tires are bare
And the AC's broke, but I can handle the heat
With my baby right beside me in the passenger seat

It isn't really far going down the road [??]
But when I'm with my honey I'm already home

Let it go, let it burn
Let the steam from the radiator rise,

Send her up to car heaven
Cause' I wouldn't mind walking to Tim-buck-too,
As long as I'm walking away with you.

I guess the jury didn't cancel the _____ on the vessel
Especially against that rusty old heat
I Don't need a car to be the queen of the road
Cause' I'm only as good as the company I keep

Let it go, let it burn
Let the steam from the radiator rise,
Send her up to car heaven
Cause' I wouldn't mind walking outta my shoes,
As long as I'm walking away with you.
No I don't mind walking to Tim-buck-too,
As long as I'm walking
As long as I'm talking

Oh I'm better off walking,
Walking away with you.
I don't mind walking away
