The first time you hurt me I thought I'd died
The second time it happened I cried all night
They say a heart can stand just so much grief and pain
But a fool in love keeps lovin' they never change
There's no fool like an old fool
That's loved and lost at least a hundred times There's no fool like an old fool that keeps on falling for the same old line

You call and say you're soory that you let me down
I take you back cause you're what makes my world go round
And though I know my chances are so very small I'd rather have a part of you than none at all
There's no fool like an old fool...
