Take a step back, be calm be settle cause you never seem to get through when your upset
It's just a little to much, just a little to soon for me now We'll breathe in our forgiveness and let it all out with a grin

I find it so obscure to live with false hopes of satisfaction,
(And I might have)
We've come to far to break it down
It's all so tempting from far away
(And there it is, laying on the floor...)
Break away while you still can
If he's real he'll take you by the hand

We're falling fast, we're falling fast from life
And we are so concerned with where we'll end up
There's only time to see what's up ahead

So many minds filled with loss
And no sense of where to begin
It becomes hard to breathe

Find a way to reconstruct your plan
Given obvious reasons why we're put into this place

Find a hope that we can hang onto When we're falling from skylines and hanging ourselves from the roofs

Take a step back be calm and realize we're in this together
They've seem to found a way to make it clear
So clear it's plain as day
They've found a way to set the trend
They've found a way to live it true
They've found a way
They've found a way
They've found a way
They've found a god damn way
With the lies just flying every way tactics make it clear
We seem to be the ones my dear so listen up

So listen up

The end is here now
We've all been found out
And I don't care what
They say or make up
I'm gonna step up
And tear this apart
Show them what I am Really made of
And destroy all those false words
You've come to know
And love so much
