It started slow like a rolling stone
The signal for the riot had come
Suddenly all hell broke loose
No time to hide, no time to choose

Water cannon, run for your lives
Teargas stings your eyes
Shops with their windows in smithereens
Burned out cars and burned out dreams

And all we're told is lock your door
Just turn a blind eye like you did before

While on the radio
Lovesongs they're still singing
And from the TV show
Another lovesong keeps on ringing

Another city, another town
It's the same old story all around
Again you're told just lock your door
To turn a blind eye like you did before

And on the radio
Lovesongs they're still singing
And from the TV show
Another lovesong keeps on ringing

While on the radio
Lovesongs they're singing
And on the TV show
Another game-show host is grinning

The sun is shining on a brand new day
Your wife comes in with the breakfast-tray
The coffee tastes good as you read the news
Police say they did what they had to do

And on the radio
Lovesongs they're still singing
And from the TV show
Another lovesong keeps on ringing

While on the radio
Lovesongs they're singing
And on the TV show
Another game-show host is grinning

Yes, from the radio
Lovesongs they're singing
And on the TV show
It's our song they're playing
