

Die Young "The Message"

It's time to revive the idea rekindle the spirit that brought us here to live in silence is to live in fear so I'll speak my mind loud and clear this voice could be the spark to ignite the silent masses let us all behold each voice that is full of passion I know tomorrow isn't promised to me so I must break free from the fear of failure, the fear of death the fears that breed our complacent disease we are all faced with this choice: escape or recreate to live in hell or rewrite our fate one voice, one fucking pen-- how I long to begin again and leave this goddamned world behind fuck you all, I don't care if it's all been said before these are the thoughts plaguing my mind and I know you don't want to hear for fear the truth may set you free then what will you do? what's your excuse? and then when it all comes crashing down and your gods are nowhere to be found what the fuck will you do? what's your excuse?

beyond the walls of this world you've come to know of dead-end streets and needless suffering awaits a message dying to be read: look beyond this fucking scene
