She opened up her eyes and said,
"Oh little sister won't you take my hand?
We'll go down together.
You know the place I'm thinking of."
She led her sister down.
And running underneath the summer sun,
With hearts on fire.

They were just two sisters in love!
They were just two sisters in love!

"Are you trying to break my heart?
Last night I saw you running through the dark...
You and him together...
You know the one I'm speaking of!"
She shot her sister dead...
And seemed to fall into that lonely grave.
Jumped in beside her.

They were just two sisters in love!
They were just two sisters in love!

"You know that I could never give you up
And I know that you could never give him up
And so I'll leave these words... on a headstone!"

They were just two sisters in love.
They were just two sisters in love!

They were just two sisters in love!
They were just two sisters in love!
They were just two sisters in love.
