

Dillinger Four

"It's A Fine Line Between The Monkey And The Robot"

Visit "It's A Fine Line Between The Monkey And The Robot" on MotoLyrics.com

Spend a day trying to sum it up with one quotation Spend a lifetime as a model of the phrase Modern man automated to withhold our thoughts with hesitation
Life of redundancy with single mind and double face
And I got to wonder where such a small man got so much hate Got our own opinions but don't throw them on the open floor
Get lost in repetition and don't want to hear them
anymore
Thousands of us dead today, thousands went unfed
today
And all we talk about's the fucking weather Got your fingers in your ear because you're heard it all before Roll your eyes as if there's nothing left to say Here it is nothing's changing and I think that's something
We can not ignore Dismiss your boredom Because I won't be what you became Life's so happy over there on the sidelines

And that's where you'll stay Got out own opinions but don't throw them on the open
floor
Get lost in repetition and don't want to hear them
anymore
Thousands of us dead today, thousands went unfed
today
And all we talk about's the fucking weather
And I'll keep singing the same songs I'm sorry if you're bored now
But i can't understand spending life ignoring The other side of the story.

Visit Dillinger Four page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

