You know my friend
I've been walking on a really strange path lately I'm so glad you were not there to see my fall, to see me passing on My wound so deep, my veins opened wide letting flow my distress letting flow my requests listen my friend as no one wanted to hear I'm telling you now

So weak was my hope, so cold the world around so strong the calls, my pain invited echoes to my hurt anguish coiled in the gut like a starving worm fallen, between, I slide down the hole at the centre of my soul
I've given up, I've given up, larvae rots
