If they would find a cure when I'm a kid
I could ride a bike and sail on rollerblades, and I could go on really long nature hikes

If they would find a cure when I'm a teenager
I could earn my license and drive a car, and I could dance every dance at my senior prom

If they would find a cure when I'm a young adult
I could travel around the world and teach peace, and I could marry and have children of my own

Chorus:
I could....if they would
I could....if they would

If they would find a cure when I'm grown old
I could visit exotic places and appreciate culture
And proudly share pictures of my grandchildren

If they would find a cure when I'm alive
I could live each day without pain and machines, and I could celebrate the biggest thank you of life ever

Chorus:
I could....if they would
I could....if they would

If they would find a cure when I'm buried into heaven
I could still celebrate with my brothers and sister there, and
I could still be happy knowing that I, knowing that I, was apart of the effort
