I'll take all that you have Take what, what I need My Soul is parched with all grief Bitterness and sadness
Is what I feed Those that don't know my shadow My Shadow, what it cast Darkness and beseech I plead in Silence, cry to the world Like a fallen angel I look Back to heaven Where's my salvation gone Wipe these Tears from my soul Gaze into the pool and looks back
At me with Crimson tears Eyes look into a world of Dead emotion Shattered my wings, no more tales to tell
Forget my lies, after all my world is hell Temptation
To fall is the unbeliever Painting a picture is a soul
Of black Life fallen to ruin and shame Fallen forever
In this dark depth of empathy Wade in cold still water
Of silence Ripple of water away is my past Quiet in
The world and beyond My hands hold the tears of sorrow
I lift my head and cry out into the silence I have Fallen, fallen into the halls of eternity The lost one
Of serenity Slipping away, leave this world behind The Rapture of life, death collides Fading farther into
The other world Open my eyes, awake in the afterlife
Shadows reap sweet sorrow To reach my last fantasy
May
I find what I seek in death May I find the answer in Death to forget my past Or have I lost my way for Eternity The fallen
