Representative thinking is a way of arranging matter.
It is based upon reason which abstracts reality.

It only captivates universality.
Difference won't be abstracted.
This abstraction from reality represents an incomplete one.

Reason pretends to represent a true abstraction from reality.
It's a way of arranging matter, only based upon recognition.

Representative thinking is based upon existing matter.

It fails in the creation of concepts because new matter is neglected.
Creation has to evolve from necessity.
It's always on the crossing border of existing and non-existing matter.
Creation will be based upon imagination.

Rhizome - multiple entries of equal importance.
It's not equal to profession or learning.
Rhizome - enables one to connect the obvious with the non-obvious.
One will avoid obviousness.
