There's something strange about the way the tap-water tastes
Making speeches for the walls gets harder with every phrase

I woke up and everyone had gone
I woke up when the sun was setting
I woke up and you were gone away

On any given day
We might fall apart
We might fall apart
On any minute now
We might fall apart
Just like a house of cards

There's something strange about the way the horizon glows
We'll lie down on the road and cars drive inches from our toes

I woke up and everyone had gone
I woke up when the sun was setting
I woke up and you were gone away
On any given day
We might fall apart
We might fall apart
On any minute now
We might fall apart
Just like a house of cards

Maybe it's the chloroform kicking in
The chloroform is kicking in
Or maybe we've given in

Maybe it's the chloroform kicking in
The chloroform is kicking in
Or maybe we've given in

On any given day
We might fall apart
We might fall apart

On any minute now
We might fall apart
Just like a house of cards
Just like a house of cards
Just like a house of cards
Just like a house of cards
