Remember when we used to laugh about everything
The world is still a place you felt at home
The streets you walked,
you recognize, the names are still the same But everything around you is looking different now You've lost yourself you're in too deep

chorus
I'm going under,
into the unknown
As the surface fades
I can see your face
I'm going under,
all the way down
And even if I drown I'd give my life
to pull you from the water.

You don't know how, you don't know when things started to unwind Far beyond the point of no return your bags are packed your mind made up
but you got no place to go Maybe all you need is right in front of you
Take a breath
You're just out of reach

*chorus

Take a breath

*chorus
