What is and what shouldn't be
That seems like a scene from a movie but it's all going down
Waiting on a new day
'Cause a promise may be coming around

I'm counting the hours 'til I see you again
And no one's going to know where we've been

I'm falling from grace right into your arms
How did you know when to be there?
With all our mistakes we've buried the scars
But we know where they are

What is and what shouldn't be
You said you were going to save me and where are you now, now?
So why would I make you stay
I wouldn't want it that way but it's all going down

For every beginning that comes to an end
Another one is starting again

And I'm falling from grace right into your arms
How did you know when to be there?
With all our mistakes we've buried the scars
But we know where they are, yeah
We know where they are

You never asked me for a reason though I know you wondered why
You kept on believing, believing you and I
We're meant to be together and maybe you were right

Falling from grace right into your arms
How did you know when to be there?
With all our mistakes we've buried the scars
But we know where they are

How did you know, how did you know when to be there?
How did you know, how did you know when to be there?
When to be there
