"The Silence I Observe"

Received a package with a bestial grunt
Between two flattened streets patrolled
By the thoughts

Although my lips they moved your voice
With Teutonic freeze into the deep
And the silence I observe
Says it's worth a little pain

Although my lips they moved your voice
With Teutonic freeze into the deep
And the silence I observe
Says it's worth a little pain

A mechanical taste in my mouth
Seems to be my last demand
My words walk in the groove
Hacking through my bleeding heart

Although my lips they moved your voice
With Teutonic freeze into the deep
And the silence I observe
Says it's worth a little pain

No matter where, no matter how
The silence I observe, it's worth the pain
The silence I observe, my bleeding heart
The silence I observe

The silence I observe
The silence I observe
