"Since You Died"

People ask how i've been doin since i lost you
I say "i'm fine."
I just say that i still feel like, oh, you're with me
They smile, i speak
They don't know what i got waitin' when i get home
It's such a shame
And every time i hear the doorbell ring itself, i get so excited yeah!

I feel numb as i sprawl my body across my bed
The shades are closed
Half-asleep and half-scared to death, you know i hate ghosts
Except for you!
And as i feel invisible fingers runnin' up and down my spine
I call your name

And everytime i see the lights turning on and off, i can feel the blood rush to my skin

I say "i'm fine."
And as a matter of fact, yeah, we get along better
since you died
I smile, they don't
They don't know what i've got waitin' when i get home
It is such a shame

And every time invisible laughter is in my ear, i can hardly keep my hands off myself
