(Billy Ray Cyrus/Corky Holbrook)

I wake up in the mornin' in a lonely ice-cold bed Thinkin' 'bout the nightmare that just played in my head
I think of all the things I miss
Like moments that we shared a kiss so dear
I'm so mis'erable without you, it's almost like you're here

I search your house for coffee, but it's to no avail
The day's not even started, it seems it's shot to hell
The jeans I'm wearin' look like dirt
As I put on my old wrinkled shirt, it smells like beer
I'm so mis'erable without you, it's almost like you're here

Bridge:

But there was a time when you were mine
& life was such a pretty dream
Then you fell in love with another man
That changed everything
The world I knew changed every day
As I watched it all slip away so clear
I'm so mis'erable without you, it's almost like you're here

(instrumental)

I turn on my radio, they play your favorite song Did I not do somethin' right? Was there somethin' I done wrong?
As you pulled away, you should've tried
Instead of feelin' foolish pride & fear
I'm so mis'erable without you, it's almost like you're here
I'm so mis'erable without you, it's almost like you're here
