We are frozen, we want everything
We've chosen to want everything

We don't want men, who want everything
And we've stolen in this suffering
And we've told them to want everything
But use caution in what you believe

And we're haunted, deny everything
Controlling in this suffering
And they're broken and lost everything
It's so much easier to lead

Take their hope away
Take their life away

When you're out of time
In this lullaby
When your soul is frozen
Is that enough?

When your heart is broken
A thousand times
With every moment
Is that enough?

Without warning we take everything
Without warning we take everything
I'm taunted in this suffering
And our forces surround everything
Make it impossible to see

Take their hope away
Take their life away

When you're out of time

In this lullaby
When your soul is frozen
Is that enough?

When your heart is broken
A thousand times
With every moment
Is that enough?

Haven't we suffered enough now, haven't we suffered enough now?
Haven't we suffered enough the damage what the night can bear?
Haven't we suffered enough now, haven't we suffered
enough now?
Haven't we suffered enough the damage what the
night can bear?

Did they even tell the reason why
Countless sons and daughters sent to die?
Can you even comprehend the pain?

Tell me when you're out of time
In this lullaby
When your soul is frozen
Is that enough?

When your heart is broken
A thousand times
With every moment
Is that enough?

When you're out of time
In this lullaby
When your soul is frozen
Is that enough?

When your heart is broken
A thousand times
With every moment
Is that enough?
