How can you have a broken heart if it was not whole from the start?
How can you fight to save your life when you're already dead inside?
Can you pretend that you're not scared?
Do you believe that no one cares?
How can you trust what peoples say if they've already turned away?

Yeah I'll remember
Yeah I'll remember

So close your eyes
You'll wake up one day and realize it's too late
And bury your head in the bed that you made You're watching it all crash now and it's tearing you,
dragging you down
You're watching a world that was once in your hands
And people you knew and at times you called friends
Erasing your face and your name and it's killing you,
killing you now

How could you run and not look back?
Could you miss what you never had?
How could you waste another day, and watch your life just fade away?

Yeah I'll remember
Yeah I'll remember

So close your eyes
You'll wake up one day and realize it's too late
And bury your head in the bed that you made

You're watching it all crash now and it's tearing you,
dragging you down
You're watching a world that was once in your hands
And people you knew and at times you called friends
Erasing your face and your name and it's killing you

You start to feel and you start to scream as you're asking what is wrong with me

You're seeing what you thought was life was nothing more than wasted time
And you hold your chest cause you can't breathe
And you drop down to your hands and knees
And you pray to god that this is just a dream
This is just a dream

So close your eyes
You'll wake up one day and realize it's too late
And bury your head in the bed that you made
You're watching it all crash now and it's tearing you,
dragging you down
You're watching a world that was once in your hands
And people you knew and at times you called friends
Erasing your face and your name and it's killing you now
So close your eyes
You're watching a world that was once in your hands
And people you knew and at times you called friends
Erasing your face and your name and it's killing you,
killing you now
