Midnight, another movie and a glass of wine
To get the feeling right
It's not the perfect moment cause' I've seen this one
But I still like the story
Then I start to close my eyes,
So very soothing the sound of white noise
A cello in disguise, playing softly to a sweet voice

Everyday is getting better
And I cannot wait to send a letter
And a resume to the director
Of this lovely play
How do I get a part?

Sunlight, another headache and a sleepy eye
To start the morning right
It's not the perfect motion but it keeps the line
From moving side to side

What a wonderful surprise,
While I'm I reading these crazy headlines
Coffee for some life and a smoke ring for a new rhyme

I'm getting closer every time to taking home the prize Quiet footsteps till' I'm there, I've got it locked up in my stare
