(Kay Arnold)

Just one inch off the ground.

In my heart there's no desire to go home living
I've lost the only treasure that I ever found
She laughed at me and made fun of my emotions
And always made me feel like one inch off the ground.

So tonight I walked her by a lonesome river
Stopped her laughing with some rope that I had found
I walked away and just left my world a hanging
Her dancing feet barely one inch off the ground.

I look down and see a world of little people
And the lights that lazy cross this lonesome town
It seems that way for thirteen stories is a long way up
Oh, but on second thought it's a long long way down.

For a moment I relive the clinging mem'ries
Of how I loved her how she kicked my heart around
I'm still a fool for my last thoughts will be of her
When I leave this ledge and I'm just one inch off the ground...
