"Vows Of Redemption"

in my darkest days in my fits of rage no regard for life all alone in a knife fight an inner beast would never let me find peace with morbid visions inflicting incisions i swore to use my fists til i slashed my wrists i welcomed death most nights but had to settle my scores right all that i could feel was grief and pain i desired my destruction - i was going insane from the miserable depths of a faded soul spilled the vows or redemption - in a world so cold before i threw it all away i'd make mother fuckers pay i wouldn't go out without one last bout keep running away - for my soul i pray redemption declared - on my soul i swear will i ever truly rest in peace? my life was a battle that would never cease at war with myself my family and friends my life my belief the pain never ends now its too late to ever make a change this negativity has got me fucking deranged living this life always felt so strange but death is forever burning in flames

no life was wasted 'cause i made my peace don't shed no tears for me my soul has been released enemy to the world myself and all others there is no life my sickness smothers i feel sometimes like life did me wrong seeking revenge since the day i was born

keep running away - for my soul i pray
