well my daddy always said son you'll have fun when your're drinkin' with your friends, and everyone takes for granted these are the best years of you life and you know high school sure seemed like a joke when i got to college i was on my own tryin to find the best drink specials every night and after many nights with the san marcus federalies well i finally figured out that i should probably keep my mouth shut instead of tellin em what i thought you know i paid the county for many months hell i even think i paid the christmas bonuses once how i learned what student loans are all about chorus

well it's taco bell for breakfast and for lunch it's keystone light i'll be out of bed by sun down make the party just on time probation's in the mornin herbal tea will do me right look what i learned in my college life

well i decided to major in country music thats when i found out that i couldn't use the thirty hours that i managed to log last year and anthroplogy sure seemed cool to me but it wasn't included in my degree and that when i decided to study domestic beer shinerbach it was good to me hell it treated me better than history and that little blonde i met in the science lab and fraternity life was a change of pace it taught me how to get shit faced and break my failing grades to good ol' dad

chorus

one of these days will come graduation i sure hope i won't be mistaken that everything i've learned won't be in vain you know sure i've failed a test or three but that doesn't make a lesser man of me cause there's more to life than a one point g.p.a chorus x2
