Here's a song for lovers
Who don't care if they don't sleep
If dragonflies with heavy hearts
Cut the air like darts

Here's a song for lovers
Who won't ever have to weep
Clear sighted eyes and uncried tears
All dried out in the sun

Ooh

You were far too young, dear
To get so close to the clouds
No one told you to stay awake
For pleasures of that kind

You were far too small to set foot
Outside of your house
Now you saw how dragonflies
Sting their hearts with darts

Ooh

Here's a song for lovers
Who don't care if they bleed
