you're pretty dreamy for a boy from long island
you should come to see me on my western horizon seems as though our paths were never meant to meet but i just look at you and know you're pretty sweet

i want to set a place for you at my table we can sit forever watching reruns on cable take you driving in my brother's beat up car sharing a cigarette and wish upon a star together

so you say you like my shirt (i like your shirt)
and you say you've got a lot just like them (i've got a lot just like them) and i hear you wrote a song about me by definition, a crush must hurt
and they do
just like the one i have on you

i want to set a place for you at my table

and i hear you wrote a song about me

long island
western horizon
