

Dolly Parton

"Highway Headin' South"

Visit "Highway Headin' South" on MotoLyrics.com

(Porter Wagoner)

Chorus:

Oh, on a highway headed south somewhere to Dixie Where the cotton blooms in the spring and the snow
don't fly

I'm gonna rest these chillin' bones in the Southern sunshine

And live where the weather's warm until I die

North Dakota, you got my better years
Montana, you got five years of my life
But the earth's sub-zero wind will never touch me again
A Southern girl can't live on snow and ice

Repeat Chorus

When I cross the Dixie line, I'll throw away my coat

And my goose-down underwear will have to go I'll never live again where the weather chills you to the bone

I'm tired of livin' like an Eskimo

Repeat Chorus

On a highway headed south somewhere to Dixie
Where the cotton blooms in the spring and the snow
don't fly

I'm gonna rest these willin' bones in the Southern
sunshine

And live where the weather's warm until I die

Repeat Chorus & Fade

Visit Dolly Parton page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.