She married the one I love today
When my back was turned she took him away
Now while they're all outside, waiting to throw rice
What I want to throw will surely black her eyes

'Cause I don't want to throw rice, I want to throw rocks at her
She took the only love I had No, I don't want to throw rice, I want to throw rocks at her
It would be a way to hurt her 'cause she hurt me so bad

Well, I never stole nothin' in my life
But if I get the chance I'll steal him from his wife 'Cause all is fair in love and war, maybe I'm carryin' this too far
But I feel like tying dynamite to her side of the car

her
She took the only love I had No, I don't want to throw rice, I want to throw rocks at
her
It would be a way to hurt her 'cause she hurt me so bad
