

Dolly Parton

"Just Someone I Use To Know"

Visit "Just Someone I Use To Know" on MotoLyrics.com

An old man was sitting at his table one day
Writing a letter to pass time away
His little granddaughter climbed up on his knee
Saying wont you please write a letter for me
Oh, what must I say in this letter I pray
Tell mommy I miss her since she went away
Im coming to see her real soon I hope
He chocked back a big lump that rouse in his throat

He sealed it and wrote on that big envelope
To god up in heaven youll get it I hope
He stamped it and handed it to her to mail
Her big eyes were shining, her little face pale
She was crossing the street to the box oer the way
And when she stepped out Never looked either way
A big object hit her and sped away fast
The little girls prayers had been answered at last
The postman was passing
And picked up the note
Addressed to the master
And these words he spoke
Strait up into heave this letter did go
Shes happy up there with her mommy I know

Visit Dolly Parton page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.