I like butterflies with big golden wings
And blue and green tips, me too
I like swiss-cheese ice cream
Me too, me too

You too, too? Wait a minute
What's your favorite book?
Hmm, The Brothers Karl Maxoff
The brothers, I can't believe it
I can't believe it

I can tell we've got an awful lot in common
Even though we look as different as can be
We don't even have to try to see things eye to eye
It just comes to us, naturally

Come to think of it, I think we fit together
Playing cat and mouse won't get us, very far
There's no need to feud and fuss
When it isn't really us, let's you and me be who we are

We're a duo, a duo, a pair of lonely ones
Who were meant to be a two
Oh, a duo, it's true-o
Wherever we go, we're going me and you

No matter what, now, we've got one another
We'll be there to pick each other off the floor
Anytime you're feeling glum
Count on me to be a chum

If ya get an itch attack
I'll be there to scratch your back
Now who could ever ask for more

Oh stop, oh stop, no, don't stop
More, more, we're friends
And that's what friends are for

We're a duo, a duo, a pair of lonely ones
Who were might to be a two
Oh, a duo, it's true-o

If we're ever in a stoop
We know we can make it through
'Cuz you've got me and I've got you
Yes, sir
