My back is broken
How 'bout you?
He's coming to my parlour
He found a spot out of our view
These questions just get harder

The answers used to seemed so clear but time's? sketched up your system? Frustrated by?something loud but subtle but just who's will out?
Just lay your live down
Never slow down

Push the button, ?receive the pay?
Except the awful notion, the truth is?backed up in a cave? of a man with Blinded vision
But listen up, don't deny that every day brings chances to throw their Foolish goals and lies right back into their faces
Just lay your live down
Never slow down

You must think, of anything, that makes my blood burn hotter, the leap of Living in the name of god will turn my wine to water

If you believe, like I believe, that you can believe what you want to

Believe, than you better believe that they want you to leave

They want your parking spaces

They want your seats in congress

They want your reputation

They want your private number

They want to read your letters

They want to see your pictures

They want to test your body

They want to smell your roses

They want to teach your children

Lay your live down

Never slow down

Said: "Lay your live down"

Never slow down

Said: "Lay your live down"
