I Don't Care Where You've Been Sleeping

I loved you long before the time your eyes first saw the day
And everything I've done has been to help you on the way
But you took all that you wanted then at last you took your leave,
Traded off the Kingdom for the lies that you believed
And although you've chosen darkness with its miseries and fears Although you've gone so far from Me and wasted all those years
Even though my name's been spattered by the mire in which you lie I'd take you back this instant if you'd turn to Me and cry.

I don't care where you've been sleeping, I don't care
who's made your bed
I already gave My life to set you free;
There's no sin you could imagine that is stronger than
my love,
And it's all yours if you'll come home again to Me.

When you come back to your senses and you see who's been to blame, Remember all the good things that were yours for just My name;
Then don't waste another thought before you change the way you're bound I'll be running out to meet you if you'll only turn around

I don't care where you've been sleeping, I don't care

who's made your bed
I already gave My life to set you free;
There's no sin you could imagine that is stronger than
my love,
And it's all yours if you'll come home again to Me.
