The ride, the lines
I've got that night memorized
And you in my head, as you grasp my hand to that song

And our eyes met
As I held you firm by your side
And your hands slipped down
Softly entwining with mine

With my hands on your waist as we danced to that song

And I almost left but your grip it held strong to the end
And your lasting breath your gasping breath
I'll remember again and again

When the lights came up
I was met with your stare and your smile
And my heart skipped beats
Making this night all worth while

And you in my head as you grasp my hand to that song

And I almost left but your grip it held strong to the end
And your lasting breath your gasping breath
I'll remember again and again
And your hands warm
I found myself lost in your eyes
And your hold strong then
Your chest it was pressed against mine

The end, the sad goodbye
Your look it set fire to my insides

With my hands on your waist as we danced to that song
