When I Look Up

Look outside see all the pain
And the tears just fall like rain
I don't understand why has man looked away
Look inside and all I see
Is a hole inside of me
I need to renew, to walk with you

Look to you
When I look up, then I see your light
When I look up, I don't look left, I don't look right
When I look up, then all my darkness turns to light
When I look up, I look up, I look to Christ who fills my cup
When I look up, look around from shore to shore

And it's clear we need the Lord
A touch from his hand, then this land could be healed
Looking back the story's told how He moved
In the days of old, He freed men from sin
Every time they looked to Him in Christ I see my liberty
