I'm standing on the edge of 43rd and Grand
With a tear in my eye and a bottle in my hand
I walked up and I stared for a bit
I noticed it's the same place that we first kissed
I'm closer than I've ever been
To seeing just how it's going to end
It looks good from here, love
So tell me
If I come back down
If I do, we'll get higher and higher
So tell me
If I turn back now
If I do, we'll get higher and higher
Or will the gravity pull us down?
I asked why and he scared me with a smile
He said nothing's going right and hasn't for a while
As strange as it seems it was such a perfect view
And the last time I was happy, it was just me and you
I'm closer than I've ever been!
Or will the gravity pull us down?
It's really not as bad as you make it sound
Anywhere is better than where we are now
I can't live without you
Don't let me go
I won't walk away
We've been here before
So tell me!
