I know you think you are hurting me and I must admit this is true
But the hurt I am feeling I know I'll get over but look what you're doing to you This world holds so many temptations and I have had one or two
But the promise of evening grows dim in the morning
so look what you're doing to you Strange lips taste better then warm so familiar Old words sounds sweeter when new arms are holding you tight
My love isn't new but it's lasting it's real it's strong and it's true
And I love you so much I don't care if you hurt me so look what you're doing to you [strings]
