(Ben Peters)

(When.)

They told me a broken heart would heal in time
And time is one thing I've had plenty of
But after so long there's been no change in mind
You're still the only one I really love.

I wonder when will I forget about you
When will I ever love again
When will I learn to live without you
When will I stop remembering when?

I think of a thousand things we used to do
With someone else they'd never seem the same
For even in other arms I think of you
I close my eyes and almost call your name.

I wonder when will I forget about you
When will I ever love again
When will I learn to live without you
When will I stop remembering when?...
