Moral Dilemmas. Just answer these questions in your own minds and in =

Your

Own hearts. Most importantly, answer these questions honestly.

1.You're walking along a country road. It's a beautiful spring day. =

As you

Walk along, you notice that up ahead in the distance, lying in the = Middle of

The road in the dirt, is a tiny baby sparrow. Both it's wings are broken.

You have....a hammer.

2.You're a medical student in your final year of study.

It's a very =

Very

Important year for you. Because of the economic climate, you've been =

Forced

To live with your grandmother. She's a tattoo artist - with =

Parkinson's

Disease. Every time she makes you a cup of coffee she shakes so much it

Froths up the milk on top, which is something you can't fucking stand.

You have....a hammer.

3.You're a young and upwardly mobile merchant banker. Your girlfriend =

Has

Just fallen pregnant. You think a child at this point in your career =

Could

Be detrimental to your future career prospects.

You have....a coathanger.
