come along and walk with me we'll see where your life could lead city streets of mystery are calling you and me scream until your voice is sore and kick down those unknown doors cause it knows that we're at home, we're at home now come along and walk with me

city streets that never sleep are waiting you and me leave everything to chance, instead of slam dance with circumstance
cause it knows that we're at home, we're at home in darkest corners of the world, in darkest corners of the world
we're at home
WALK WITH ME

at home, we're at home
in darkest corners of the world, in darkest corners of
the world
we're at home
the world
we're at home
