I don't see you fucking trying,
Who are you to tell me where I am?
If you can prove me wrong,
I'll leave you where you stand.
I can't find the words to write down,
To explain how much this means to me.
I can't find the words to write down,
To explain how much this means to me.
If only you were right,
Maybe then I'd give you the time of day,
But instead I'll leave you fucking hanging,
I can't find the words to write down,
To explain how much this means to me.
I can't think of the words to say out loud,
You'll never see this through my eyes.
And.
Just think if you were right,
I wouldn't be where I am.
The envy in your eyes is telling me,
That I'm right on track
