In spite that it would be nice if words flow out to me
Like when one writes a letter to a friend
I want some time to know each other a little more
That the only one who won't betray you is you family
Is too lonely a thing Love is asking to be loved I know I'll be happy if I stop believing but Don't you see! Even if I ask and pray for miracles and memories

I worry a little Don't you see! Even if I have a habit of pretending to be cold
I'm afraid to be hurt

Though it's only been five minutes
Of silence since I waited in the taxi stand
I feel like it's been an eternity
Wasting my time and making me weary

Don't you see! We're not to be beaten
By such petty quarrels
Don't you see! Rather than ogle at girls
I want to look just at you

Don't you see!
I'll never worry, tonight
I'll lay me down, tonight
You know, I do it for you

Don't you see! If we walk together on the streets
Filled with scents of the town we were born Don't you see! No matter how much the people in this world hurry
You can still catch me
