In the darkness of the night in the shadows of the dawn It's turning black no lookin' back the sands of time are sown

When the day will slowly end and the sun has turn to gray

Will we feel the power of freedom with the dawn of a new day? Whoa

Over mountains paved with gold and through the valleys of the slain

Our quest will lead us onwards to the journey of the brave

When the time has come to stand for the power we believe

We will ring the sound of victory for one and all to see

Sometimes in your darkest dreams you will feel the haunting pain

Silent tears of your hidden fears come to haunt you once again

Fight on for the memories of the everlasting dream (Dream)

Their pain in the silent lands on wings of glory free

We can go on forever with the darkness so far away
(We can go on)

And the warriors who live forever fight on to the end

Across the highest mountains and through the endless
seas

Our journey ever onwards fight until we all be free

Through the darkness shining the never ending light

On through the days of glory rise towards the fight

And one day we will find the way towards this distant golden age

The cries of war will sound the day

We stand before the dawn of a new world

On through the raging thunder across the seven seas

Cold winter skies are falling on the battles we have seen, yea

We can go on forever with the darkness so far away
(We can go on)
And the warriors who live forever fight on to the end

Across the highest mountains and through the endless
Our journey ever onwards fight until we all be free

Across the highest mountains and through the endless
Our journey ever onwards fight until we all be free
Through the darkness shining the never ending light
On through the days of glory rise towards the fight

And one day we will find a way towards this distant
golden age
The cries of war will sound the day
We stand before the dawn of a new world

We stand before the dawn of a new world
