Burning fires, burning lives on the long distant roads Through the lost mountains endless so far away from home

Crossing battles, savage seas towards the mountains high Forest plains of wilderness we're striking out tonight
On towards our destiny we travel far and wide Journey through the darkness as your hearts refuse to die

In the flames of hell we fire at will the fires of doom has come With the forces of the blackest knights they're staring at the sun Far across the distant plains of ice we're searching for the sword
When the time has come for battle now we follow with the horde

We will ride with fire burning hot towards the night sky
In the land of long ago forever in our souls
Fly on wings of shining steel are burning so bright
In ancient lands of warriors we're riding on again

Burning fires, burning lives on the long distant roads
Through the lost mountains endless so far away from
Warrior soldiers forever we fought long ago
We're all lost in the darkness so far away from home

Fallen soldiers taste the steel of death, the daylight dawning
Sun will shine upon the lives of burning hearts of ice
As you break through the boundaries of life this feeling of despair
And they die in their sleep for the world that will not care
You feel lost in this labyrinth of pain, this sickening dismay

There's a voice inside that's calling another wasted day

Can't you see the history, the suffocating madness?
In the land of fallen souls there's nowhere left, no place to go
I have traveled far and wide across this wasteland Still searching for the answers for the right to understand

Burning fires, burning lives on the long distant roads
Through the lost mountains endless so far away from
Warrior soldiers forever we fought long ago
We're all lost in the darkness so far away from home

Riding through the starlight and smashing the boundaries
As hellfire falls from the sky
A shadow of pain will arise from the ashes
Of those fallen ones who have died Our only master with fire and fury of hell will see his bidding done Blasting from high as the battle unfolds to the gates of the city we come

We will ride with fire burning hot towards the night sky
In the land of long ago forever in our souls
Fly on wings of shining steel are burning so bright
In ancient lands of warriors we're riding on again

Burning fires, burning lives on the long distant roads
Through the lost mountains endless so far away from
Warrior soldiers forever we fought long ago
We're all lost in the darkness so far away from home
