You ask me why I display this array of pain
When it's obvious to you I can't complain
You say it's just a phase that's supposed to make it OK
In a couple of years I'll look back and laugh
My youth reduced to a few bad photographs
So what if this doesn't pass what if I stay this way

What if I don't want to pretend that I'm OK
So what if I don't want to play the great adult game
What if I don't want to mellow out in my PJ's
What if I don't want to sit back and complain
I'd like to retain my anger my fear my feelings
Judge me all you will at least I am dealing
With these situations the best way I can
And as for you I really don't give a damn

Unless 90% of everybody is a fraud
Unless you got nothing to scream about
Unless you're always happy, always proud
All of you ain't got nothing to talk about

Take the snapshot and pull it out
Twist it and turn it around
