"Worlds Collide"

When I breezed in here
I could see the mist on your breath
Even though the thermals rise from the Skin of a few hundred lovers on a summer night
I slide over
Shield my eyes from the scorching rays of the clublight
Everybody's burning up but there's a
Cool air about your body and your attitude

We are just figures in the fire, the fire
Mercury is creeping higher and higher, and I feel
That one look from your
Icy blue eyes, Icy blue eyes
You'll see you want me too

Ooh, I'm burning up now
And I'm exceeding a thousand degrees
So, as you move closer
I can feel you melt into me

Your pale white face shines
As you light up a cigarette
You betray the faintest smile
And I shiver
It's a feeling long ago alien
Our lips meet
I supernova
Our worlds collide to make paradise
I can feel me spread through you
And I know you can feel it spreading through my body too

We are just figures in the fire, the fire
Mercury is creeping higher and higher, and I feel
That one look from your
Icy blue eyes, Icy blue eyes
You'll see you need me too

Ooh, I'm burning up now
And I'm exceeding a thousand degrees
So, as you move closer
I can feel you melt into me

Hey, there's nothing wrong now
We like a bit of danger in the games we play
This equilibrium
Does it suit you, 'cos it suits me

Ooh, I'm burning up now
And I'm exceeding a thousand degrees
So, as you move closer
I can feel you melt into me
Hey, there's nothing wrong now
We like a bit of danger in the games we play
This equilibrium
Does it suit you, 'cos it suits me
