See this beautiful place
Beyond time and space
That shines of glory and grace.

It holds a reason to live and Something good to believe in
And love to embrace.

You thought you'd found what you've been longing
for all your life,
A velvet dream that kept you warm and helped you stay alive.
Yet there's a bitter truth you know but fear to say it aloud -
The day will come and you will feel it's time to give it all up.
It's only...

One more thing to say goodbye to,
One more memory to fade in time.

On a cold winter day
When life seemed pointless and grey
Three children gathered to play.

The game enchanted their minds
And brought a sense to their lives.
They played it hours away.

It was the symbol of their friendship and their guiding light.
They made a promise to each other then to stay allied
For all eternity, to keep on playing day and night.
But once they grew up they got down to earth afraid of height.
It was just...

One more thing to say goodbye to,
One more memory.

A man with scientific lust
Researched the ashes and dust

To find a key to the past.

To ease a neurotic strife,
The greatest work of his life
He had completed at last.

But though the mysteries were solved and truth was free to fly,
He found it cannot change the world however hard you try.
The course of history forever will remain a lie.
The past is gone and you're not blessed before the day you die.
It's only...

One more thing to say goodbye to,
One more memory.
One more squad of false illusions,
Washed away like castles in the sand.
