Dante: isn't it a strange thing that all the roads - along
I'm wandering are leading into nowhere's land
A life of no memories a story hidden place
A world grown apart from what my mind refused to see

People dying while they're living
Sometimes they were never born
If you never asks the question
You'll never (have to) fear the answers

I cannot tell you right from wrong
I have to leave this grayness walls
(so) believe me now and follow later
- things are never what they seem to be to me
- what they seem to be to me alone

Narrator: for he went on to seek his life - komoedia
Of infernos and of paradise . komoedia
So it has to end as it began - kom?dia

Beatrice : so did i wake thou slumbering feeble
And did i shake the sleeping fool
Thoust thou think you would have escaped?
Yours shall not be reality!

Virgil: long weve waited in these woods
And talked about our long lost son.
We know you never are to make
A heavenly normal happy life

Beatrice: we've watched your steps since early days
Virgil: and sent to you the old wise man
Beatrice: to break the curse you laid on yourself
Virgil: we've come again to save your mind

Dante: memories form satan's roaring laughter and smiles
Beatrice! virgil! my long lost friends
B+V: theh fog has hidden memories of the dayswhen dante was another man

Dante: and no to you my charming guides
As once i lay my trust in you
I still shall follow your comand
Take my hands to guid a fool

B: to guide you to the wicked one
V: to lead you into paradise
B+v: was a simle task to do
Compared to what awaits you (you now)
You have to find your aim in life
You have to find your way

Dante: you woke me up and broughtthe memories of my shinig past
Don't leave me now - guide my way
For i've been lonely far too long

B: you will assemble you state of mind
The one when you were still a child.

V: remember when you saw the moon
And followed him along

Dante: the last thing i ask of you to doas for i have to walk alone
Is just to kiss my face again

B+v: our hearts are with you every day
But leave us now to find your way
